'Janca' Wins Planners' Vote For Street Name

Redwood City's "J" St. enigma was apparently solved Monday when the city planning commission selected from 19 suggested "J" names this: Janca (the city manager pronounces it Jangka).

The name, suggestions for which came from many Peninsula communities, will go to a renamed street in the Lenolt subdivision, if the city council ratifies the planners' action.

The Janca tree is a Jamaica rosewood tree.

Other recently renamed streets in the same area are Kadota, Lilac and Magnolia.

The commission set Mar. 9 to hear the application of a San Francisco distributing agency to rezone the block bounded by Walnut, Stambaugh, Maple and Hilton Sts. Tentative approval was given to subdivision of a five-acre block on Roosevelt Ave. proposed by Engineer W. G. Frost for Wooster, Whitton & Montgomery.

Historical Society To Elect Officers

At its next meeting, set for next Monday night at 8 o'clock at San Mateo Junior College, the County Historical Association will hear annual reports, elect officers and enjoy a talk by Leon O. Whitsell, former member of the California Railroad Commission and authority on California history, Secty.-Treasurer H. F. Taggart announced today.

Molotov, the Soviet Commissar of Foreign Affairs, was one of the editors of "Pravda" when it was founded.

Places Open Three Days

Several score of volunteers, working without pay, will staff the registration bureaus this weekend for the three-day "R-Day" signup of men between the ages of 20 and 44, inclusive, according to Chairman P. J. Kearns of Selective Service Board 106.

Three shifts of workers will be maintained at most of the registration offices, four at others, although some of the workers will be on duty throughout the day. The offices will be open from 7 a.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday, Sunday and Monday, Feb. 14, 15 and 16.

The three-day signup was arranged instead of the original one-day registration to suit the convenience of the public and to eliminate any interruption in industrial production, Chairman Kearns explained.

MAY REGISTER ELSEWHERE

However, any potential registrant who may not be able to be in his own community any of the three days "need have no cause for worry on this score," Kearns said.

"Even though advisable," he explained, "it is not necessary for any person, subject to the law, to register in the place of his residence. For it is the place of residence and not the place of registration which gives jurisdiction over the registrant to a local board.

"For this reason any person away from home may register at the nearest registration place. In doing so, however, he must be certain to give the correct permanent place of residence as distinct from his mailing address. For it is out of the former alone that the jurisdiction of the local board arises. It is impossible to stress too greatly the importance to the registrant of giving to the registrar the proper place of residence."

TO ASK 9 QUESTIONS

The registration will present a procedure stripped to essentials in the interests of speed and simplication.

State selective service officials said only nine questions would be asked: Name of registrant, place of residence, mailing address, telephone, age and date of birth, place of birth, name and address of person who will know registrant's address in event it is changed, employer's name and address, and place of employment or business.

Every man born on or after Feb. 17, 1897, or on or before Dec. 31, 1921, and not already registered in one of the previous signups will be required to register.

REGISTRATION PLACES

Registration places in this vicinity are as follows:

In Redwood City—Washington School, Lincoln School, Garfield School, McKinley School, John Gill School, Central School and Selective Service headquarters, 525 Marshall St.

Other places—City hall, San Carlos; city hall, Belmont; local board 107, 1074 El Camino Real, Menlo Park; Boy Scout hall, Pescadero; county library, Half Moon Bay; St. Patrick's Seminary, Menlo Park, and the post office, San Gregorio.

County Workers Get Bond Instructions

County Controller Thomas J. Kane has issued instructions to county employes on details of the payroll allotment plan for purchase of defense bonds.

"Your participation in the plan is purely voluntary," his letter to employes said. "It is adopted only for your benefit and convenience."

County employes are offered an installment plan whereby an amount is deducted from each pay toward a Series E bond bearing 2.9 per cent interest if held for 10 years.

Frank E. (Judge) Pitts Dies Unexpectedly

Frank Edward (Judge) Pitts, 39, operator of a cigar store and newsstand on El Camino Real, died suddenly Sunday of a heart attack. Death came at his home at 434 Roosevelt Ave.

He is survived by his wife, Irene C. Pitts; a son, Frank Edward Pitts Jr., 11 days old; three brothers, William J. Pitts and Harry F. Pitts of Los Angeles, and Raymond Pitts of San Francisco; and a sister, Sister Hieronyme, O.P., of Washington, D.C.

He had lived here for the past four years. He was a native of Chicago.

State Road Between Woodside-Skyline Open

There is A county road between Woodside and Skyline Blvd. closed as the result of last week's storms, but it is not THE main state road between the two points, as might have been gathered from Saturday's story in the Tribune. The road which is closed is the old county road, which was washed out by heavy rains and may be closed for nearly two weeks. The state road, however, is open.

New First Aid Classes Set for Men, Women

With sufficient instructors now available, Redwood City Chapter, American Red Coss, is able to offer additional courses in first aid, according to Richard L. Allphin, publicity director.

The standard 20-hour course, designed for beginners, will be available to both men and women, he said. Those who have not registered but desire to have the course, already being taken by some 500 people in this community under supervision of both the Red Cross and the emergency disaster committee, should register at Red Cross Headquarters, Broadway and Main St. (telephone 118). When sufficient registrations have been received, classes will begin at a time and place which will then be announced.

Tribune Readers To Get New 16-Page 'War Book'

One of the most complete "war books" the Tribune has seen is now being printed and will be distributed free with their papers to all regular subscribers soon, probably this Saturday.

Compiled by the Associated Press' feature service, Wide World, this 16-page tabloid size war book will cointain 17 large maps, explanatory material designed to give one an understanding of problems developing in the war, and pictures of war equipment and troops. Maps are of all parts of the world, illustrated so that any reader can understand just how each fits into the great jigsaw puzzle that is World War II.

The Tribune War Book is one everyone will want to save.

Because of the expense entailed in its production, only one can be given free to each subscriber, but a few extra copies will be available for 10 cents each at the Tribune office. Extra copies may be reserved by calling at the Tribune office, 30 California St., Redwood City, or telephoning Redwood 2000.

School teachers desiring the war book for classroom work may obtain a special price for quantity purchase as long as the supply of extra copies lasts.

Modern House Makes Better Living

House Compact and Comfortable

Modern in design, this house is compact, and being built all on one level, is comfortable. The porch is a great convenience. The bay window in the living room is very attractive and lets in a great deal of sun and light. This house can be built on a small lot.

Furniture Business Has Good Outlook

Home furnishings stores of the nation face 1942 with confidence that there will be good sales volume ahead . . . a demand which they can fill without interference with national defense, and which will contribute to good morale. That viewpoint was expressed at the annual meeting of the National Retail Furniture Association, recently completed.

Paul O'Leary, assistant to Price Admstr. Leon Henderson, told 1300 leaders of the industry gathered in Chicago, that they would not interfere with defense production nearly so much as would many other businesses, because wood furniture does not use essential war materials to the extent common in many fields of manufacture. The furniture end of home furnishings should experience as good or better business in 1942 as in 1941, which was a banner year for many concerns, he said.

"Furniture stands as a monument to the full life, to which we shall some day return," Mr. O'Leary pointed out. "Compared to many industries, your sacrifices will be milder. As other goods are curtailed, furniture will undoubtedly get a good share of the purchasing power to be diverted from other durable goods, such as automobiles."

At the same time, other leaders in the field anticipate that only hard work—"blood, sweat, and tears"—will produce good results for the year.

"Continue to promote and sell as you never have before," merchants were told. "By curtailing promotional efforts dealers will, in effect, slacken the flow of goods essential to a war economy."

Simplification of Design

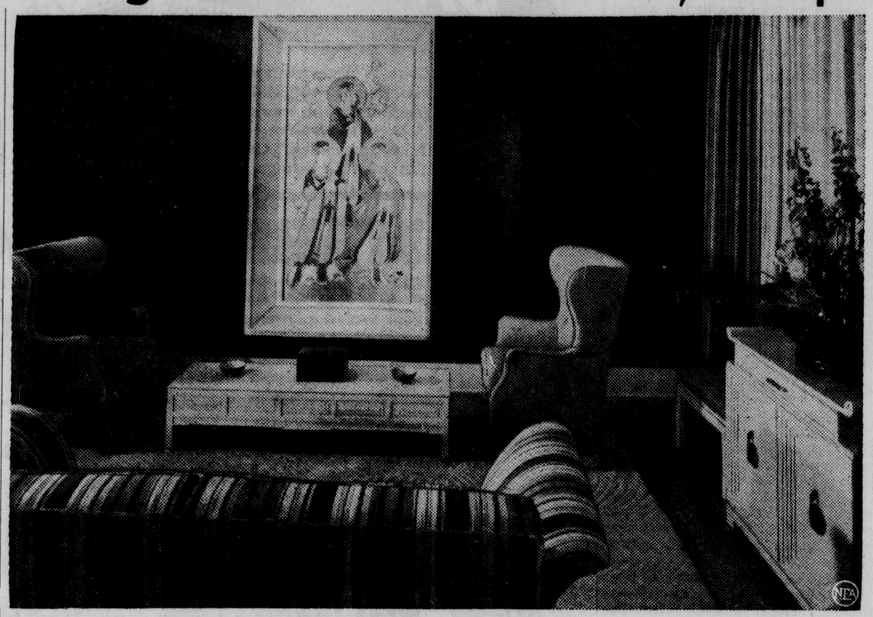
War Time Brings Boom in Modern, Simple Furniture

BY MARGUERITE YOUNG

NEW YORK—Three words to get in mind in straight capitals before starting any excursion into the mid-Winter furniture market are CHANGE and MODERN DESIGN. You'll meet them everywhere. Change in prices, delivery and credit arrangements, style. Modern design in everything from unpainted chests to Eighteenth Century-inspired desks.

The big industry's leaders looked over, and seemed to like, some important long-range blueprints at its huge January American furniture exhibition in Chicago. Now they herald the birth there, of "a distinct American style," and the coming of "a new era" wherein the purposefulness and beauty that are built into a table or chair will be more important than hardware and scrollwork added on afterward.

Adaptations of period designs are still being produced and sold—if you're a traditionalist, you can get them. Big news of the year though is practical, modern-life-inspired stuff. It's coming in response to a popular demand that often surprises the makers.



Color is news in this year's new furniture. This simple, warm sitting room derives color, comfort and purposefulness from combined modern furniture and period-inspired pieces. The modern chest and bench are old ivory lacquer, as is the table, inspired by an ancient Chinese one. The colorful Chinese painting lends another Oriental touch. Walls have black lacquered paper, which contrasts strongly with gold chairs and modern vibrantly-striped sofa.

AMERICAN DESIGN

"In the past practically every furniture design, with the noteworthy exception of Early American, has been the outgrowth of a basic European style," says an announcement evaluating the big show. "The good points of foreign styling do not need to be cast aside, but the time has come for American individuality and inventive genius to take its rightful place."

That's a big industry talking—and changing, and growing.

Prices are up, which should inspire bargain hunters at mid-Winter sales. Stabilization for the coming months was promised at Chicago. One manufacturer forecast an average increase of 15 per cent during 1942.

Delivery time varies from city to city, store to store, line to line. But a good rule to follow is:

If you intend to buy furniture, particularly anything of a new line, plan ahead, budget, go into the store and order as soon as a new room-display opens, so that you can be supplied from stock or from the next "cutting" ordered by the retailer.

Two things have trained the industry's thoughts on the modern functional design. One, the makers have an eye on the half-million defense-worker houses scheduled to go up during 1942. Many displays at Chicago reflected awareness of the need these homes present for adaptable, smaller, compacter, more movable, flexible, better-looking furniture at prices a $50-a-week man can budget.

These new pieces were made of limed oak, bleached mahogany and walnut, birch and bleached maple. This market will affect the styling all through low-priced and medium-range goods. It's the "groove" of the future.

Secondly, this "groove" already is well cut in the field of fine furniture. Four oustanding big, new lines are out, or will be soon, all modern design, native wood stuff.

There's a Hollywood group. Framework and supports are of elm with soft, slatey-grey finish, drawer fronts are combed oak, quite light. This large group, for bedroom, living and dining rooms, will come into outstanding stores all over the country soon.

Organic design, introduced jointly by a museum and outstanding department stores, is a dark horse success. It ranges in character and design from radically-lined, body-moulding chairs to light birch cabinets as prim and familiarly, beautifully simple as a Puritan cupboard. Each room of this group was manufactured from a prize-winning design.

Two other lines will come into display rooms before Spring. One is Designers Helen Park and Salvatore Bevelacqua's 100-piece group in American walnut and blonde woods, especially oak. Here again, flowing lines and subtle curves create a great variety of modern moods from simple informality to formal baroque effects. This group is keyed to a precisely co-ordinated plan stressing a "progressive program" of home decoration—meaning you do the whole house at once or over a stretch of seasons with equal ease because each piece is built to fit into either scheme.

Gilbert Rohde, University of Washington lecturer, also does a hundred-piece collection in walnut. It's now scheduled to be out in March. In designing it, Rohde sought to shake down and select from the trends and demands of the last decade and thus produce basic functional pieces.

Cases and cabinets are square, tables are round, oblong or square. There are four finishes—very light bleached, dusty or pallid, pickled surfaces, natural American walnut and antique. The last is made to blend with traditional pieces as well as fit into completely modern rooms—a characteristic many manufacturers are stressing.

Two other new Rohde bedrooms are being shown now, one in paldeo and flaky maple, the other in textured or combed birch. All the new lines feature optional use of leather and leather-type upholstery.

Color is news in those four and in practically all other new furniture and furnishings. Oriental and patriotic influences were stressed at Chicago—gay floral decorations on cases, European peasant and Oriental decoration. For example, Chinese modern rattan, and streamlined rattan upholstered in red, were important. Lamp bases incorporated new, bright crystal, ceramics, finishing materials of all kinds (instead of metal) and also many new forms.

To sum up, furniture men are putting the accent for the future on modern simplicity—not the forced drama of angles and curves for their own sake, but furniture built with a thought for the moving, labor-saving, apartment-dwelling, small-home-buying habits of American families.

Icicle Beveled Mirror Popular

An icicle beveled mirror is a popular type this year. This mirror is available in blue, peach or natural glass border, with genuine metal leaf trim.

"Happy New Year" in Chinese is used as the motif for a Chinese Chippendale mirror, also a best-seller. In keeping with the increased patriotic theme, the gold eagle has been enlarged on the federal convex glass mirror, with its 13 balls to represent the original 13 states.

WASHABLE COVERS

Slip covers made of washable material may be washed successfully. Pick a breezy day for quick drying. Wash it quickly in the washing machine using lukewarm water; hang in the shade. When it is almost dry, put cover on chair, smoothing it to shape. Press pleats into place with fingers. It won't need ironing.

HOME-MADE POLISH

Housewives used to following recipes have found the following furniture polish easy to make and simple to apply: Equal parts of turpentine, vinegar and kettleboiled linseed oil. When applied, the surplus should be rubbed off with a clean cloth, and the covered area rubbed dry and polished with a soft lintless woolen cloth.

HOME TUNE-UP

Twice a year check up all appliances. Replace or have repaired all worn-out electric cords. Oil such appliances as need it, following instructions. Thoroughly clean all appliances—refrigerator, range, the innards of the coffeemaker, the grids of the waffle iron. Clean, oil and wrap electric fans for winter storage.

Husband, Wife Should Compromise On Furnishing, Decorating Room

Pity the poor male who has to sleep among frills and bows because his wife insists on furnishing the bedroom in such a manner that it looks as though no healthy man would dare enter its door. Most women are sensible enough to make concessions and give their husbands some say about bedroom furnishings, but there are those who go their own sweet way.

Before his marriage, the man of the house probably had his own room, littered with smoking stands, ash trays, magazines, books, and an assortment of objects that even he couldn't classify. It is too much to expect him to move into a dainty boudoir with frilly curtains at the windows and a chair that he wouldn't dare sit in, after he has given up his bachelorhood.

Fortunately, men design bedroom furniture, so there isn't much chance of going wrong on the pieces themselves. The man of the house deserves plenty of storage space for his array of colorful ties, socks and other wearing apparel, and he will be happier if he has his own chest of drawers or dresser, so he doesn't have to look under a stack of lingerie to find what he needs.

He probably likes to read before going to sleep, so a lamp at the head of the bed or on a nearby stand is a wise investment. The bright light from the ceiling fixture is bad for the eyes of the reader and hard on the disposition of the one who wants to sleep. Many of the new bed lamps may be focused directly on the reading matter and do not throw the light either way.

It is much easier to get shoelaces tied properly when seated in a chair than when perched on an edge of the bed, so Friend Husband ought to have a chair to save that situation.

He is perfectly willing to let the little woman have a vanity and matching bench, and her own attractive boudoir chair, if he has his share of possessions. He won't even complain too much if the curtains at the window are fluffy, as long as he gets plenty of air during his sleeping hours.

JOHNS MANVILLE JM PRODUCTS

Research Speeds War Output

In ordinary times, a majority of Johns-Manville workers owe their jobs to the J-M research, development and expansion program.

More than fifty percent of the products made by us before the war started were the result of this program during the previous dozen years.

And that shows how important all-around team work is in a big industrial outfit like J-M.

No one group in the organization can exist without help from other groups. Stockholders put up the money to buy buildings and machinery. The research men figure up new products for the workers to make. The plant workers make the products and the office workers and sales forces distribute them to the customers. Management's job is to direct the show in the best interests of all these groups.

J-M's Research and Development department is especially important right now because it is working on the problem of turning every possible ounce of J-M's factory efforts to war work.

How can we convert to war use the basic raw materials, the technical skill and the plant equipment we ordinarily use in our peacetime production?

Well, for example, equipment formerly used for making insulation for domestic refrigerators and other domestic needs can be used to turn out certain new mineral wool products for war.

And equipment formerly used to make brake linings for cars can be used to work on new developments in asbestos materials for use of our military forces and defense industries.

So far as possible, J-M's entire production capacity will be turned to wartime purposes.

And our laboratory workers are the boys who can turn the trick.

Industry Beats '29 Production

Although American industry has been breaking all production records it must produce even a greater amount to achieve victory, Lewis H. Brown, president of Johns-Manville Corporation, said recently.

Discussing industry's part in the war effort Mr Brown said:

"Only a few years ago, after this country's worst depression, many persons were wondering whether or not the United States would ever again succeed in equaling the volume of production which was established during the record-breaking year of 1929.

"But under the tremendous stimulus of war, production last December skyrocketed to 52 percent above the figure for 1929. No such increase in the rate of output of American factories has ever been approached before. Yet, during the coming year, our industries must achieve an even greater productivity in our all-out victory effort.

"Until this war is won, nothing else is important. If we do not do everything that is necessary to win there will be nothing left in our country or in the world that will be worth defending. Winning means all-out for all of us—our work, our money, our lives, if necessary."

J-M FAMILY ALBUM

Frantz, president of the J-M Employees Credit Union, the first defense bond to be sold at J-M's plant at Marrero, Louisiana. The bonds are sold by the Credit Union. J-M employees throughout the United States are buying defense bonds and stamps.

Making Jobs

The inner shell of the hub cap of an automobile costs about 12 cents when made by machinery. But the machinery required to make it costs $43,500.

An investment of several thousand dollars is required to make possible the job of each J-M jobholder. The stockholders who put up this money come from all walks of life, including housewives, doctors, bankers, school teachers and, of course, J-M jobholders.

'Ball of Fire' Comes to Sequoia

"Ball of Fire" with Gary Cooper and Barbara Stanwyck, concerns the love and life of a scholarly professor and his night club sweetheart. She teaches him slang, just as she teaches him to live and love . . . but he teaches her a few things too, which makes for some of the most hilarious comedy of the season. It opens at the Sequoia Theater Sunday.

Emerald Lake To Ask Water Rate Inquiry

Unless something is done about the high water rates of the Emerald Lake district, residents will not be able to raise victory gardens. This was pointed out Monday by Pres. Gustave Chevassus at a meeting of Highlands District Improvement Association at the home of Guy Farwell.

It was decided to refer the problem to the state railroad commission for consideration.

It was voted to recommend to the board of supervisors that a light be installed on Park Rd. to eliminate pedestrian hazards. During the Summer especially, many persons travel the street by foot and it was said to be too dark for safety.

Seventy-seven persons of the 132 serving as air raid matrons and auxiliary volunteer police and firemen have not yet completed registration requirements for defense service, it was announced. Steps are being taken to correct the situation.

Library Now Receives Two Eastern Papers

The Redwood City Library announces that it is now receiving two large daily newspapers from the East, so that local residents may be able to keep informed of events as reported on the other coast. These are the New York Times and the Washington Post.

The library has recently subscribed to the following new magazines to add to its regular list of approximately 100 titles:

American Cookery, Annals of the American Academy of Social Science, The Argonaut, The Coast, Commonweal, The Congressional Digest, Foreign Affairs, The Magazine of Art, Scribner's Commentator, Sports Afield.

There were enough orange trees in California and Florida alone to equal one tree for each family in the United States, according to the 1940 census.

'Remember the Day' at Carlos

Claudette Colbert, the screen's most feminine actress, forges her grip on film greatness with her poignant, stirring portrayal in "Remember the Day." The climactic scene pictured above depicts the time when Claudette as Nora Trinell is forced to forego her love for Payne when wagging tongues exact their terrible toll. "Right to the Heart," with Brenda Joyce and Joseph Allen Jr., and a Disney Cartoon plus latest news complete the program, which comes to the Carlos Theater Sunday.

Peninsula Rents Found Higher Than S. F.'s

Peninsula and East Bay residents pay $10 more a month rent on the average than residents of San Francisco, it was indicated by a dwelling unit survey announced Monday by the research division of the WPA.

Monthly rent for the average three-room dwelling in San Francisco was $30, compared with $40 in the Peninsula area. Special virtue of San Mateo County rental homes in this range, however, was that they averaged four rooms instead of San Francisco's three.

Further Censorship Put on Industry, Port Stories Here

It's been printed before in this newspaper that there's an industry coming to this vicinity, but there'll be little or nothing in the Tribune in the future about it—by request of U. S. Army authorities.

Pointing out that this is the war zone; that there are probably spies or saboteurs here and in nearby cities; that the Tribune does spread information when it prints it, not only here but in other districts where the paper is delivered or mailed, the army "suggested" that further information which might be of interest to the enemy be omitted from this paper.

Names and locations of war industries therefore will be left out of the Tribune in the future —till the War Department thinks it safe for such information to be published.

A similar policy must of necessity prevail in connection with the Port of Redwood City. Only very general information about activities at the municipal harbor should be printed now, the army informed the Tribune.

Names of firms using the harbor, products being shipped in or out of there, building progress, and ship movements should be omitted from stories. Citizens are asked not to go to the port unless they have business there; in fact, the port is under guard, and only people properly identified and having cause to enter the port area are allowed therein these days.

So—even if there is much doing in this vicinity industrially and at the harbor, in the interest of winning the war, the Tribune will in the future sacrifice some stories, and hopes that its readers will understand and accept this policy.

Citizens of this community are asked not to discuss promiscuously or pass on any matters they may hear similar to those listed above as being banned from publication.

Remember: "A slip of the lip may cost a ship."

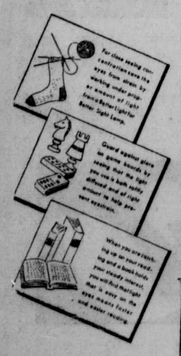
ALARMS BLACKOUTS RESTRICTIONS

Ask at any P. G. & E. office for our handbook of suggestions on how to prepare your home for a Blackout.



You are spending much more time at home. There is more neighborliness too. Living rooms and playrooms have become nightly centers for quiet, comforting entertainment.

Is your living room and playroom prepared for this purpose with adequate and proper lighting? Is the light sufficient and properly diffused for easy seeing? Does your present lighting do all it can to make rooms more cheerful, attractive and comfortable?

Good lighting should serve to ease eye-tasks as well as enhance the beauty or eye-appeal of your home furnishings. Mere brilliance of light is hard on the eyes and causes ugly shadows in a room. Good light is light that is well diffused, soft, glareless and easy on the eyes.

A good selection of efficient and attractive lamps and fixtures is still available. You will have no trouble choosing the styles you will like. They are reasonably priced too! Start enjoying good lighting on the home front tonight.
